

Topics Raw materials and their utilisation has been disposed in this graduation thesis. A survey of curricular documents, school books for secondary schools and theses focused on D-elements has been conducted. The technical text transformation into the teaching material has been made on the basis of this survey. This can be used as teaching aids in chemistry and environmental lessons. Experiments suitable for secondary teaching have been carried and the lab protocol for the higher and lower grades of grammar schools has been created.