

In my bachelor work I deal with a topic of inequalities in education and inequalities in the access to education from gender perspective. It is a very wide and multidisciplinary topic.

In my bachelor work it is possible to find in fact four points of view. General characteristics come from the sociological point of view – here I deal with inequalities generally, I give explanation why they exist, what they kinds are and then I explain the meaning of „gender“ and after in the text I deal with traditional sociological theory, which is social stratification in the view of dealt topics.

Next view of inequalities from gender perspective I got from historical theory – with its help I deal with the history of women’s education in the Czech Republic and how the women tried to reach formal education till today.

Then I deal with this topic from the view of pedagogical theory – theory about education. I try to look into the most common mistakes made by the authors of the school materials as well as by teachers and at the same time I try to give them a manual how to avoid these mistakes and how correct gender sensitive education should look like.

At last I deal with today’s situation in women’s education in the Czech Republic and a topic close to it – labour market.
