

Abstract

This diploma thesis makes a survey about ideas of the traditional healing, safety precautions and practices in life of people from the north-east Slovakia (Svidník city, village Kružľová and Svidnička). The basis of the thesis represents an interview analysis and interpretation of realized results from the view of traditional folk healing, psychotronics and contemporary medicine. The whole text is transcended of the reflexion of rationality and irrationality phenomena into the principles and practices of traditional folk healing.