

The aim of this bachelor thesis is to focus on selected works of Ian McEwan, The Cement Garden and Atonement. It attempts to compare and contrast the dominant themes and narrative strategies the author explores and employs in these novels. Also, the thesis concentrates on how the narrative techniques influence the structure of the texts as well as on how the readers perceive the main themes of his novels.