

The topic of this diploma thesis is „Influence of the European Parliament on the constitution of second Barroso Commission under the Lisbon Treaty“. The thesis concentrates on the field of new institutional framework settlement under the Lisbon Treaty on the example of constitution of the new European Commission. The work brings an overview of both phases of European Commissions nomination procedure, designation of the President and nomination of single Commissioners. This work is also focused on the procedure of the Commissioners hearings in the European Parliament Committees. The work also analyzes draft interinstitutional framework agreement, as it was negotiated along with consultations on composition of the new European Commission.