

Thesis deals with a frame of mind and its influence on human behaviour and judgement. It focuses on analysis of perception, from which result that the frame of mind is deeply influenced by perceptual structuralism which is directed by principle of identity and diversity. It also deals with fundamental conditions of moods in relation to being of the human as a whole.