

ANOTATION

The bachelor's thesis deals about the quality of life and the degree of psychosocialologic pillar by the soldiers AČR in the outward mission in Afghanistan. It points to the importance of psychologic setout before the departure to the mission, also that the attendance of army psychologists in missions is uncoverable. I'm trying to explain their actions which are connected with this hard life situation for all soldiers who participate there.

The accent makes quantitative prospective checking by force of questionnaire ŽSO/01/11. Pursuant to it I asked to the degree of psychosocialologic pillar and the quality of soldiers who act in the afghanistan outward mission. The points of interest were regular soldiers, the members of 71. mechanized battalion Hranice, who were added at the function of protection commpany 6. PRT mission ISAF.
