

This thesis focuses on the information resources suitable for analysis of political and economic development. The main aim is to present sources which deal with the intelligence. The term "intelligence" is also subject to closer examination. The following chapters describe various sources of valuable information: from providers of security and political analyses to country intelligence.