

Diploma thesis „The Role of media in the fall of communism regime in Czechoslovakia in 1989” should analyze the situation in Czechoslovak media in 1989 and their impact of the fall of communism regime. The paper is based on three fundamental matters came through 1989 (Palach Week, anniversary of the August occupation, events blasted of 17th November). The paper should research how informed the selected official and unofficial media through these three fundamental matters. The Paper should confirm thesis about the role of media in Czechoslovakia in 1989. Media had a major influence on thinking of people in Czechoslovakia and had a significant impact of the fall of communist regime and the process of democratization at the end of the year 1989. There were also a big differences in coverage of official and unofficial media as well as their gradual transformation during 1989. The official media also broadcast some rumors very often and deceived the citizens in Czechoslovakia. As the proof of these thesis should serve the news research from selected official and unofficial media on three fundamental matters came through 1989. The important part of the paper are also the testimony of witnesses of Velvet Revolution.