

My diploma dissertation deals with the question whether it is possible to achieve the development of children's creativity by their early reading and writing in common school conditions. I also use various methods and forms which conduce to the development of one's creative abilities and skills. I tired to outline the creative activitis which I had pursued with pupils in the course of two schools years. I did a small survey, comparing the results of the development of children's creativity on a number of other shools.
