

In this thesis we study interest rates and we introduce short rates models. Then we study interest rate dependent financial assets. Next we introduce duration and duration of portfolio of bonds. In the next part we focus on fundamental analysis. We mention its basic parts and we introduce tools used in fundamental analysis. In the last part we focus on technical analysis. We start with chart formations and then we describe indicators. We show application of indicators on data from real market.