

The thesis traces a part of the history of the town of Rakovník. It mainly focuses on the cultural life of the citizens, criminal acts, the work of police and the building activity during the Second World War. It also depicts the days of May 1945 and the reaction of the local people on being liberated.