

ABSTRACT

This thesis deals with the issue of the autistic spectrum disorders. The main goal is to find out if it's possible to integrate the autistic children into the society. Another task is to find those educational and formative methods which can positively influence the integration. This thesis focuses on different aspects of this disorder as well such as diagnostic, personal and work assertion of these handicapped people in the maturity.