

This bachelor thesis deals with impact of world economic crisis for employment in Germany. The aim of the work is to analyse the economic development from 2007 to 2009 with help of macro-economic indicators, with a special attention to problems of employment, labour market and anti-crisis measures, with were taken in the field of labour policy.