

This Bachelor thesis focuses on a life story of Albína Palkosková-Wiesenbergerová (1908-2002), newspaperwoman, writer and a political prisoner of the 1950's. The thesis describes Albína's life based on her written memoirs and confronts these with the archived documents to create an appropriate view of her life. One part of the work focuses on the life style of female political prisoners in communist labor camps.
