

The aim of this thesis is to clarify the aspects of communication of the aristocratic family of Rosenberks in the 15th century. Attention is paid to the general phenomena of communication in the era of the High Middle Ages - the institution of messengers, which played the main role in the message transferring. By describing the life and political activity of Oldrich II of Rosenberk in the wide historical context, a personality is being pointed out, whose correspondence is of our main concern. The following chapters deal with analysing of information contained in the edition of letters and documents registered by the office of Rosenberk. On the basis of information imbibed by the study of documents included in the edition and literature dealing with the Rosenberk environment, the work follows, how the communication proceeded, who was taking part in it and which obstacles existed in this matter.
