The paper deals with hunger and repletion in the linguistic picture of the world in Czech. It is based on the theses of Polish cognitive linguists, where the cultural context of the language is very important. Hunger and repletion in linguistic picture of the world are shown through the etymological connections, figurative meanings and phraseological expressions, which are associated with the semantical range given.