

The goal of the graduation work called Family and school - communication and collaboration is to describe an area of school-family communication and cooperation and to bring basic facts, circumstances, researches and conclusions useful for a future teacher practice closer to the reader. The purpose is to help teachers to create a notion of a level of school-family communication and collaboration and its possible form. The teacher-parent relationship has an essential influence at child's school performance. In child's own attitudes to the school and the teacher we can identify parent's attitudes. An effective communication and collaboration could be a contribution for all participating members (teacher, parents, and child). The task of the teacher is to create suitable conditions.
