

Abstract

This work deals with moderation of news programmes on ČT24 in years 2005 – 2010. First we try to sum up history of news broadcast on Czech television and also to tell something about beginning of continual broadcasting in 2005. This type of broadcasting came with new elements to news broadcast and it also significantly affected the work of anchormans. In next part we define the role of anchorman in news broadcasting. Differences between anchorman and quite similar jobs as host, reporter or commentator are shown. In the work the means of moderator's communication are defined – verbal and especially nonverbal. Analysis of using this means is content of practical part of work. .

We use iVysílání of Czech television for practical research, specifically period 24.5.2010 – 28.5.2010. Forenoon part of broadcasting is analyzed. There is news broadcast every thirty minutes. Items of news are short, catchy and very often we can see changing of news genres – report, interview, read piece of news. This mixing of genres is typical for continual broadcast. We check in analyse if anchormans use nonverbal communication in continual broadcast.
