

Abstract

In the days of normalization there was a lot of groups in Czechoslovakia which were spreading the literature, which couldn't be published in the state's publishers. Manuscripts VBF was one of them. This edition was different because it focused on publishing collected works of three authors, who had been already not alive. Manuscript VBF was established on the beginning of seventieths by Bedřich Fučík and Vladimír Binar to publish Jakub Deml's writings. The Jakub Deml's writings was organized to fourteen volumes. Thirteen of them were being published since 1978 to 1983, the fourteenth one wasn't finished. Meanwhile the decision came to publish also Jan Zahradníček's writings and Jan Čep's writings. Vladimír Binar prepared Bedřich Fučík's writings after Bedřich Fučík had died. There was a side product called Bibliotheca of Manuscripts VBF, in which some works of the organizers and their friends were published. The thesis includes an annotative bibliography of the edition and an interview with Vladimír Binar.

The purpose of this thesis was to make a bibliography of Manuscripts VBF, compile information about this edition and add a worthwhile witness of one of its organizers – Vladimír Binar.
