

By examples of detail in various levels of meaning the author discovers concrete layers of relation between man and public space. The creative part is focused on crossing borders, both in given relation and between life and art - and art forms. Didactic part refers to transmissivity of the fields, concerning the (public) space and developing possibilities of the theoretical bases in practical exercises.