

The thesis deals with social work at hospital, exactly with job description of social worker at hospital, with support which he receives during performance of work and conditions under which he performs the work. In the theoretical part there are defined terms social work and social worker, his competence and approach to clients, hospital, patient and client. It also deals with ethical codex. Then it deals with disability and its types. It deals with family and educational styles, situation of families with child with disability, different social benefit from social welfare scheme which they can be entitled to and social services which they can use. It discusses also attitude of parents to children with disability and process of coping with this reality. Next part deals with social work at hospital, defining social work at the hospital, his education and job description requirements. There is also mentioned the term quality of life, which should social worker bear in mind during work with clients. In practical part there is analysed work of social workers at the hospital with the aim to describe their amount and activities. At first there is defined used research strategy /qualitative/, research methods and research techniques and also analyzed obtained data. Within discussion between theoretical information and data obtained from research investigation there is proposed procedure of social workers at the hospital and also at the relation to families with children with disability.