

ABSTRACT:

The bachelor thesis attempts to survey and compare educational needs, opinions and experience of people employed in various fields of school management regarding the application of employment and labour law.

The aim of the practical part is to determine whether and how the management's educational needs concerning employment and labour law differ depending on the type of school.

The research findings might contribute to efficient labour law teaching and learning.