Abstract
This study is focused on problems of the Villa Rustica in Thrace and Moesia Inferior. Trends of romanisation were examined and applied on the area. The occurrence of Villa Rustica was the evidence of ongoing cultural and social changes in society. Villa rustica represented another new model of Roman economy, which has been successfully adopted in the Thrace and Moesia Inferior. For better understanding of the phenomenon villa rustica, I have made a list of basic sites, which are representative sample for this territory. Based on previous research and publications I have developed basic typology of Villa Rustica which respected the local specifics. Last but not least was to explored issues of rural settlements - Vicus, which is an important element for understanding the evolution of society.
