

Abstract

This bachelor thesis deals with the graves of prominent Czech geologists at the three of Prague Cemeteries. 15 graves were found and localized to plans. Building and dimension stones used on the graves were classified to rock types. To become more detail identification, magnetic susceptibilities of rocks were measured.

Keywords

Problem, grave, development, actual state, CVs, external factors, magnetic susceptibility, research, calculations, results, values, method