

Abstract

Diploma thesis deals with alien species, primarily invasive species. Only in Europe there are 10 822 alien species, of which 10-15% could have a negative economic or ecological impact. Thesis highlights the threat alien species pose to the original species, biodiversity and human health, and necessity of cooperation in resolving this issue. The author gives their characteristics and provides an overview of legislation in the field of international, European and Czech law.