

Criminal act brings the individual to a crossroad in his life, where one of the following parts of the journey is almost clearly determined. Earlier or later brings this reality a question, which is connected with every serious change in human life: "What is actually the meaning of my life now?"