

Annotation:

This bachelor thesis deals with relations between China and Turkish qaghanate in the time of Sui and Tang dynasties. In the first part it focuses on questions of relations between China and steppe ethnic groups in the course of Chinese history. This piece of work emphasizes the establishment of Turkish qaghanate, its internal structure and development from its inception to the first half of the seventh century. In the main part it focuses on description of Turkish-Chinese relations. The main sources for this thesis are dynastic chronicle Jiu Tang shu and Sima Guang's Comprehensive Mirror to Aid in Government and because of that the thesis focuses mainly on military and diplomatic contacts.