The work compares two different ethical approaches. It concentrates on the phenomenon of responsibility. It tries to make reflection of traditional philosophical approach which is based on Kant’s system. Spaemann suggests this one. Jonas sets new ethical norms which are able to cooperate with technical development of society. An author annotates these two stances.