Abstract

RÉZOVÁ, Michaela. The current koncept of education to marriage and parenthood
Charles University in Prague. Philosophical faculty, pedagogical department.

The main topic of the thesis is an attitude of present-day young generation towards contemporary marital and parentage education.

The thesis is aimed at opinions and attitudes of students of high schools in the area of marriage and parentage. Common features are family education, interpersonal relationships and mainly partnership relationships.

The theoretical part of the thesis defines basic terms that deal with problems of contemporary family, marriage, parentage and partnership.

The main aim of the analytical part of the thesis is processing of questionnaires answered in high schools in the East Bohemia region in order to ascertain opinions and attitudes of students on the topic.

An outcome of the thesis is an evaluation of attitudes of students in the area of family education, main importance of marriage and transition to parentage responsibilities. There will be collection of methodical topics that could support foreknowledge in the area of sexual education in high schools.

Basic terms: education, partnership, marriage, parentage