This thesis deals with designing programming language, compiler and~intepreter assigned for visualization of geometric algorithms.

Emphasis is put on designing the simplest language and on quality of visualization environment.

During compiler implementation a syntactic LL(1) parser generator was created.

As a demonstration of functionality thesis contains implementation of some geometric algorithms written in designed language.