

This bachelor thesis is focused on the donation of books to the Capuchin library in Sušice made by František Trachta. It is registered in the catalog of Gotthard Tesar from the years 1875–1876. Comprehensive analysis of the gift was preceded by the complete transliteration of the list of the donated books from the nineteenth century German cursive script. Each of the individual chapters in the bachelor thesis describes all historical and factual information related to the donation.

The project is conceived on the basis of historical documents and preserved archival materials, which could be obtained for inspection. All recorded information is introduced and explained as accurately as possible to avoid any speculations.

The well known studies of Prof. Václav Bok and Prof. Antonín Janák were used as a base of the research and became supports of the so far untreated subject.
