

I will deal with educational methods used by teachers during the English language lesson taught in the classes attended by integrated pupils with specific learning disability in my diploma work. The aim of my diploma work is to describe which methods, styles of work and tools are used for education. I will present definition of specific learning disability, causes and symptoms; legislation relevant to integrated pupils with specific learning disability and methods and principles education of pupils with specific learning disability and symptoms of disability during the English language lesson in theoretic part of my diploma work. In practical part, I will present results of my study. This study will realize by using methods „sitting in on a class" and interviews with teachers at 10 primary schools in Prague, in the 4th and 8th grade by two lessons in the spring of school year 2004/2005.