

Abstract

The paper will be devoted to the problem of land division between Greek citizens in ancient Greece from the theoretical and practical point of view. The focus will be especially in the researches documenting the development of rural regions of the Crimean peninsula (Chersonesos, Panskoe,...), Taman peninsula and south Italy (Metapont). It will try to find parallels but also to show the regional differences between these areas. As the work covers also agriculture it will include the results of paleobotanical, archeozoological and palynological research, too.

Keywords

farms, agriculture, Greece, Greek colonies