

Abstract

This thesis discusses the issue of risk behavior in a specific environment of the school dormitory. The theoretical part is the first boarding school in the Czech Republic- Open Gate- the boarding school. It describes the unique system of educational and preventive care, which was taken over and partially transformed from British boarding school. The practical part is focused on the results of prevention programs and personal questionnaires in Open Gate. In conclusion, the efficiency of the impact of dorm environment on the formation and evolution of risk student behavior is assessed.