Annotation:

Bachelor thesis Pilot testing of educational material, describes the process of creating educational activities targeted at sustainable transport, preparation of pilot testing and subsequent evaluation of the obtained knowledge and insight of the piloting process. The theoretical part presents examples of piloting process carried out in the Czech Republic. Then the author presents a list of selected teaching methods that have been chosen to create the educational activities. And finally in the empirical section provides detailed procedures for verification and evaluation of findings learned within the creation and pilot evaluation of the educational activities.

Key words:
Pilot testing of educational material, sustainable transportation, progressive teaching methods, project teaching method, problem teaching method, use of different kinds of intelligence in the classroom, adventure education, audiovisual materials in teaching, survey, transport habits of schoolchildren, feedback on educational activities, cooperation of staff in educational activities,