(4) Jews still talk too much about what happened to them in the Holocaust.

- Large portions of the European public continue to believe that Jews still talk too much about what happened to them in the Holocaust.
- Overall, 42 percent of those surveyed believe it is “probably true” that Jews still talk too much about the Holocaust.
- In fact, a plurality of respondents in Austria, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Spain and Switzerland believe this notion to be true.

(4) Jews still talk too much about what happened to them in the Holocaust.

- Large percentages of respondents across Europe believe that Jews still talk too much about what happened to them in the Holocaust.
- Overall, 44 percent of those surveyed believe it is “probably true” that Jews still talk too much about the Holocaust.

Příloha č. 3: ADL, 2009 - Aspoň tři uvedené antisemitské výroky sú „pravdepodobne pravdivé“. (graf)

The following chart illustrates the percentage of those surveyed in each country who answered “probably true” to at least 3 of the following traditional anti-Semitic stereotypes:

- 1) Jews are more loyal to Israel than to this country.
- 2) Jews have too much power in the business world.
- 3) Jews have too much power in international financial markets.
- 4) Jews still talk too much about what happened to them in the Holocaust

- Overall, nearly one-third of those surveyed, 32 percent, believe that at least three of the above statements are “probably true,” while 15 percent believe that all four are “probably true.”
- In fact, 28 percent of Polish respondents, 20 percent of Spanish respondents, 18 percent of Hungarian respondents and 17 percent of French respondents believe that all four of the above statements are “probably true.”
