The aim of this work is to present the Korean minority living in Central Asia. There are analyzed the causes of emigration and the history of Korean ethnicity in the countries of Central Asia. The work deals with the cultural traditions that is the Korean ethnic group in Central Asia maintaining, developing and changing these traditions and also with the contemporary problem of self-identification as members of the Korean minority in a foreign environment. Another point of work is a summary of the changes that have occurred in the language, which the members of this minority communicate.