

Abstract

Primates in Czech ZOOs and possibilities of their use in extracurricular activities of children and young people

Bachelor thesis is dedicated to Czech zoological gardens, its utilization and importance in extracurricular activities of children and youth. Apart from protection of endangered primate species zoological gardens take an important educational role. Student's education is provided by observation of different primate species and also by special educational programmes.

It gives opportunity to become familiar with breeding interesting primate species, which are suitable for extracurricular activities of children and youth. As well with Czech zoological gardens which deal with breeding.

Keywords: extracurricular activity, primate, zoological garden