

Abstract

The bachelor thesis presents the Partisan Movement in the region of Svratka from 1944 to 1945. The main goal of the thesis is to introduce a comprehensive overview of partisans' units, their activities and involvement in the May Uprising in 1945. The whole thesis is divided into five chapters. The introduction describes the region of Svratka and the beginnings of the resistance movement. In the second chapter, there is a description of partisans' units, whose work was closely related to this region. The following chapter describes a partisan's unit Vpřed, because the center of its work was Svratka. The fourth chapter focuses on the cooperation of partisans' units during the May Uprising. The last chapter is devoted to the citizens of Svratka, who were actively engaged in resistance activities.
