

This thesis in theoretical part deals with short definitions algic syndrome cervical spine and the question of pain, introduces the basic anatomy and kinesiology cervical spine. It also deals with possible causes, diagnosis and therapy of functional disorders associated primarily with neck pains . The practical part is devoted to two case reports of patients with neck pain and chronic low back problems. In these case reports described outpatient rehabilitation therapy at a physical therapist's office.