

Annotation:

The aim was to theoretically characterize the issues associated with ulcerative colitis. The purpose of processing of five case studies was to determine the possible causes of ulcerative colitis. In other words, what are the reasons why the ulcerative colitis does or does not occur in people of various ages, whether it is the same process of diagnosis, whether it is the hereditary disposition that is the main prerequisite for obtaining the disease, what is the prognosis of the disease and whether the schools provide the students with disabilities with enough support for education with respect to their disease. The practical part is to verify the stated assumptions.

Key words:

diagnosis, ulcerative colitis, Crohn's disease, chronic disease, colonoscopy, gastroenterology, remission, immunology, disposition, prognosis, disabilities, support for students in the education process.