

Abstract

This diploma thesis focuses on the topic of regional unemployment in the Czech Republic during the economic crisis of 2008 – 2011. Briefly describes the evolution and causes of unemployment in this period at the regional level of ORP and looks closer at the labor market in one of the most affected regions in these times of crisis.

Key words: economic crisis, regional disparities, unemployment, unemployment rate, Czech Republic