

Abstract

The topic of this thesis is the research and characteristics of partner cohabitation of highschool students in present times, adolescents attitudes to the primary values of family and their preparedness for parenthood. The theoretical part is engaged in the history of partnership coexistence from the original models untill the present. Then it's engaged in the basic definitions of a given problematics and attitudes of teenagers to partnership and parenthood relationships. It is looked on the differences of upbringing in various social enviroments.

The main goal of the practical part is to compare the opinions, values and attitudes of the chosen sample of highchool students and apprentices according to their family situation. Through the subsequent analysis of the collected data will be found out, whether the current students' goals are more focussed on the career progress, or to getting married.

Keywords:

family, partnership, cohabitation, history of family, young people, part, sex education, secondary school