

Abstract

The subject of this thesis is protect of children and adolescents in the evaluations of The Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting. The first part is mapped Czech media legislation with regard to the legal standards underlying The Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting in their trials (particularly Act No. 231/2001 Coll., on radio and television broadcasts). The next chapter introduced The Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting, in particular with regard to its activities and competences in relation to the protection of children and youth. The central and largest of the thesis is the research itself, followed by the processing results of the research and defining conclusions. Research is conducted content analysis using qualitative and quantitative strategies. As a basis for research is used legislation, case law, decisions and notifications Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting from 2008 to 2011. The aim of the research is to find out whether we are protected the interests of children and adolescents in the Czech Republic, as broadcasting is concerned. What does the legal regulation of the media in this area. And how much is the legal regulation of the media in the protection of minors used in practice. Whether therefore The Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting simultaneously with the Czech justice system effectively protects children and adolescents.