

The bachelor thesis consists of a translation of a part from a French publication called L'Environnement and of a commentary on the translation. The source text deals with different aspects of general ecology and environment protection. The translation contains a part of the first chapter concerning general ecology and the fourth chapter treating animal and plant protection. In the commentary, the source text is analysed and diverse translation problems and possible solutions are examined.