

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis deals with narrative in video games, specifically in RPGs and its „hybrids“. Theoretical part presents selected concepts of game studies and narratology, which are used as a base for a possible method of analysis in the practical part of this paper. This method is demonstrated using four examples to form four short case studies.