

Abstract

This theoretical thesis focuses on area of human rights education with a specific target on innovative approaches, which would be possible to apply in following fields; higher and academic education fields of medical, social work, charity work, social pedagogics and other similar fields, that focus on bringing up professionals for direct client-, patient- or student-care.

From available resources this thesis tries to describe field of education and formation of individual in human rights understanding. Besides that, refers to current view on human rights education and provide with inspiration for working with this theme in upper mentioned fields of studies.