ABSTRACT

This thesis with the title “Quality of Life of Girls in the Diagnostic Institute for Youth“ is focused on the current concept of quality of life and the concept of value system of girls in the diagnostic institute for youth.

The first part of the thesis deals with adolescence and problem behavior in this period. The work describes the relationship of values and the concept of quality of life in adolescence. It also focuses on the diagnostic institute for girls in Hodkovičky and the ways of influence of the system of values and the quality of life of girls.

The empirical part presents the data obtained from 15 respondents. There was used the method of questionnaire. The data were elaborated by means of qualitative and quantitative methods.

The aim of the thesis was to identify the subjective view of girl’s quality of life by identifying their value system. Our aim is also to find out the development of their value system and the quality of life during their stay in the diagnostic institute for girls.

We believe that these research findings might be helpful in work with girls with behavioral problems not only in the diagnostic institute for youth.
