

This master's thesis aims to describe the status of the Czech Bar Association in the Czech civil sector and to present the professional chambers as the part of the civil sector, which has not been described much so far. It aims to prove that the professional chambers are one of the organizations of the Czech civil sector, using the Bar Association as an example.